Hurricane Roars Towards Battered Central America

Previous Storms Toll Is 14 Dead
With Damage of Two Million
HUNDRED HOMELESS

San Salvador, Salvador, June 9.—(By Pan-American Airways Wire)—A new tropical disturbance roared today toward the coast of Central America, lashed for the past two days by a destructive hurricane.

A wireless dispatch from the western coast at Merida, Yucatan, Mexico, said a storm centre had formed in the Gulf of Mexico and was moving toward the Central American east coast.

The North American continent, apparently, will not encounter the storm which has lashed Central America.

Fourteen Die
Communication service was badly crippled by strong winds and heavy rains which accompanied the hurricane. Preliminary reports indicated eight were killed in Salvador and property damage might reach as high as $2,000,000.

A dispatch from Mexico, D.F., said 12 persons were killed in the crash of an airplane, possibly caught by heavy winds on the edge of the hurricane, in Chiapas State.

Severe damage, it was learned, was caused in Honduras by rains and wind. Transportation service was cut.

SEEK NEW INDUSTRY, EXECUTIVES ADVISE

Vancouver Board of Trade Visit
Nanaimo On Tour of Goodwill

Members of the Vancouver Board of Trade enjoyed a new thrill yesterday, when they hurried into the bowels of the earth on their inspection of the local collieries. Others enjoyed golf at the local links, while those interested in lumbering witnessed the shooting of the B. and T. camp at Mount Benson. Some inspected the Biological Station at Departure Bay, where a lecture was given by Dr. W. G. Clements.

"Prosperity in the mining industry, will again come to Nanaimo, but not for some time," in the opinion of Mayne G. Hamilton, well known executive of the Bank of Commerce. His belief was borne out by W. G. Murray, one president of the B. C. Electric Railway.

Both men suggested that Nanaimo should seek to establish other industries.

"You must face facts," said Mr. Murray. "If people are using oil burners, it is unfair to ask them to junk the burners and use coal." He suggested that the efficiency and the convenience of the coal burners be widely advertised.

The Vancouver visitors were hosts to the local Board of Trade executive and the City Council alder the C. N. S. Prince Rupert last night, where His Worship Mayor Barsby, Capt. P. Byrne, president of the Nanaimo Board, and Mr. George Caldwell, president of the Vancouver Board, exchanged greetings.

The party left at midnight for Courtenay. They will visit Powell River, and Prince Rupert before returning to the Terminal City.

ROOSEVELT ASKS FOR $26 MILLION

Huge Sum Necessary For Drought
Suffers In Middle West

Washington, June 9.—President Roosevelt asked the United States Congress today for $25,000,000 to finance the drought relief program the administration already has undertaken.

"A large-scale assistance by the Federal government is necessary to protect people in the stricken regions from suffering, to move feed to livestock, and livestock to feed, to provide and process surplus feed to acquire and process surplus feed," he said in a message to Congress.

Absolute freedom for the administration to spend the money as it saw fit was asked.

"We are dealing with a rapidly changing problem and it is important that the authorization should be flexible so that funds can be allotted to the several Federal agencies as required," the President said.

SEAMEN'S STRIKE NEAR SETTLEMENT; BOATS ARE LOADED

Waterfront Union's Opposition To Working Boats Wiped Out
By Agreement
SHIPPER'S CONCESSIONS

Port By Port Settlement Probable Says
From Frisco

Seattle, June 9.—The sailors' union of the Pacific, including sailors, firemen, water tenders and cooks, who had blocked the loading of boats for Alaska, announced today most of their demands had been complied with by employers and that Alaskan ships might proceed to sail for Alaska under the terms of an agreement signed yesterday between the operators and the striking longshoremen and striking longshoremen.

Previously the Seattle waterfront was in a state of confusion as the crews of ships scheduled to sail for Alaska refused to serve, declaring they had been left out of an agreement signed yesterday between the operators and the striking longshoremen.

Pickets from the Firemen's and Water Tenders' Unions stopped the truck loads of freight in front of the docks, and officers of the unions said no cargo would be allowed to leave until the demands were granted.

(San Francisco, June 9.—) Port by port settlement of the Pacific Coast longshoremen's strike appeared possible today as negotiations were in progress for extending an agreement which cleared the blockade for Alaska shipping at Seattle.

Mayor Charles L. Smith of the Washington city said other steamship interests will be asked to follow the lead of the Alaska shipping companies in "open port" agreements with the Longshoremen.

In reply Joseph R. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association said he will meet with a group of shippers. Mayor Smith or mayors at other ports, can bring together for conferences.

The Alaska agreement, under which approximately 1,300 of the 25,000 maritime workers who walked out along the coast will return to work, grants the Longshoremen's demand for control of hiring halls, the key point of dispute in the strike. That a similar concession by shippers at other ports must be made if the strike is to be settled generally was the declaration here of William J. Lewis, district president of the I. L. A.

"We shall insist on complete control of hiring halls," he said.

The agreement with the five Alaska shipping companies granted the Longshoremen's demand for a six-hour day and provided that the question of wages will be submitted to arbitration. The Longshoremen's return to work under existing scale of 85 cents an hour. The coast strike call demanded an increase to $1. Six vessels, loaded with supplies for Alaskan ports, were to leave Seattle, during the week end.

JUBILEE YEAR

Victoria Times, Established in 1884 Has Big Edition

Victoria, June 9.—The Victoria Daily Times, first published on June 9, 1884, today celebrated its golden anniversary edition, recording historically the development of the paper and the growth of British Columbia's Capital City.

Founded by John Grant, M.P.P. for Carriacou at the time, with whom was associated Hon. Robert Bevan, former Premier of the Province, and Dr. E. J. Milne, well known Victoria physician, the paper has through the years passed through the hands of many owners and ranks with the pioneer newspapers of the province. Thomas Gardner, an Englishman, was the first editor.

Shortly after the project was launched the late J. C. McLaughlin assumed editorial management. When he established the Vancouver World at the late Hon. William Templeton, who owned the newspaper until his death in 1914.

The Times has been a consistent supporter of Liberalism since its inception.

Cry For Help Comes From Kidnapped Missionary

Hankow, China, June 9.—A cry for help came today from the Rev. Howard Smith, United States missionary held by bandits in the mountain fastnesses of Kweichow Province.

In a letter to his wife, he asked her to have the United States government try again for his release.

In the meantime she should maintain his insurance "without fail," the letter warned. He said he was well treated. The letter bore the mark "somewhere in Kweichow."

He is in the hands of the notorious renegade, General Ho Lung, who demands $35,000 cash and $3,500 in medical supplies.

British Navy In Danger By Use of Imported Oil Says Admiral Nicholson

If Supply Failed Not a Ship
Could Sail, Or Plane
Rise

ARGUMENT FOR COAL

By Admiral Wilmot Nicholson, C.B.
London, June 9.—Grave disquiet is being expressed in naval and mercantile circles regarding the fuel policy of the government in regard to the Navy.

It is being urged by men of authority and experience that the whole strategic position of the country has been changed for the worse, and to its grave danger by the adoption of oil in the place of coal for the British Navy.

I may say at the opening that I completely agree with those who are anxious to impress on the government the urgency of this question.

The adoption of oil fueling has handed over to foreigners complete control of these islands in the event of war.

Partial dependence on oil would have lost us the last war if it had not been for our immense accumulated money power and economic resources which are not now so great as they were.

Before 1914 the great need of the country was to ensure by a strong Navy our supplies of foodstuffs. Today we have allowed oil supplies to become even more important than food supplies.

If our oil supplies are cut off a large proportion of our food supplies would be unable to move, our air-fuel could not rise from the ground, and our mechanized Army could not operate, and a large proportion of our industrial plants would be unable to work.

Danger of Starvation

Moreover no protection from the Navy could be afforded to those food ships that were still mobile through being fired on coal. Consequently, the nation would starve.

These are strong words.

Volcanoes of New Zealand In Eruption

Wellington, N. Z., June 9.—Several volcanoes hitherto dormant or extinct began to erupt today, while the famous Rotatory Geyser, inactive since 1931, spouted to a height of 500 feet.

A column of steam, 3,000 feet high rose from the crater of Keblehat.

The volcanoes of Tongareva and Naparua also started to erupt.

WORKERS DEMOUNCE PLAN FOR PEACE IN U.S. STEEL INDUSTRY

Steelmasters Accept Plan As
Johnson and Insurgents
Bandy Curves

STRIKE LOOMING
Unionists Swear To Place Their Own Plans Before the President

Washington, June 9.—A roar of indignation, steel union insurgents raved today against a plan for peace in the United States steel industry approved by Hugh S. Johnson and the employers.

"They swore to see President Roosevelt today, present him with a plan of their own and then bury home prepared to fight!"

The threat of a steel strike, which many officials fear would bog-tie the Hoover drive, seemed still ominous.

About the plan for a peace board to settle capital-labor fights—a plan which Johnson said he "practically prescribed," and which the steel masters accepted last night, the international president of the Steel Union, Michael F. Tighe, remained firmly silent.

Choice Language

Johnson and the insurgents whaled away at each other, using such phrases as "hell and bluff" and "damnable."

"We are done with you and your iron and steel institute board," a score of the leaders said in a statement.

Recently, a group of leaders of local unions, declared by President Tighe to be without authority to speak for the international, suggested Johnson could learn something by walking up to an open hearth furnace and getting his summer pants scorched.

Johnson, in a speech last night, announced what he called "these immature leaders."

"As for hardship and starving pants," he said, "I have had mine scorched by months of exposure to an equatorial sun, and to paraphrase an Indian fighting colonial of my early service, old Graveler Hines:

Skin off a Saddle

"I have worn enough skin off the part of me that fits into a saddle (or used) to riding over the flat lands of Texas and the hills of Arizona, to make half a dozen such critics as they."

Enraged, a score of leaders issued a counterblast, which said:

"The international steel workers, who have had just one year of refined speech full of hell and bluff, denounce you for making such a damnable statement using your government position and the national radio to call us fighting colonial of your own schemes just so much skin off a saddle."

ARMED SOUTHERN MOB LYNCHES TWO

Two Negroes Hung Following Attempted Assault of White Woman

Lambert, Miss., June 9.—The Delta country buzzed today over the swift lynching last night of two young negroes for attempting to assault a white woman.

An armed mob of about 125 white men snatched the negroes, Joe Love and Isaac Thomas, from a sheriff and two deputies. They hanged them from a small highway bridge near here.

District Attorney Greck Rice arrived today from Clarkdale with county deputies, seeking the mob's leaders. He sought information also concerning the manner in which the negroes, each about 25 years old, and Love, who was the mob's boss, were taken from the sheriff, W. T. Haynes of Quitman county and his aides.

For several hours after the lynching the counties of Quitman, Bolivar and Lenoir were under martial law and no one would discuss the dual lynching.

Late in the night the bodies of Love and Thomas were found by officers hanging from the bridge, their feet dangling above a gutted railway. Their necks were broken, but their bodies were not mutilated.

THE TIMES CELEBRATES

Two months ago it was the privilege of this newspaper to celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of its founding.

It is interesting to look back through the old files of the Nanaimo Free Press, and to read the words written by the late George Norris on June 11, 1884.

It was a happy period of the first two issues we are unable to form any opinion as to the political character of the paper.

The wish of Mr. Norris has been borne out by subsequent events. It has been widely associated with the progress of Victoria since its inception.

It has been a forthright, well-edited sheet, and by its enterprise and fearlessness, it has won a deserved place in the community it serves.

The Nanaimo Free Press sincerely hopes that the Times will always prosper, and will continue the sound fundamentals of journalism, of which they are such able exponents.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON GIVEN

Description of Crucifixion Taken From the Book of Matthew

Time: Friday, April 7, A. D. 30. Place: Golgotha (Calvary). Persons: Jesus, Roman soldiers, chief priests, scribes, elders, two thieves, the multitude.

Golden Text: Looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God.—Hebrews 12: 2.

MATTHEW 27: 33-50. Sup: 33. And when they were come unto a place called Golgotha, that is to say, a place of a skull.

School: 34. They gave him vinegar to drink mingled with gall; and when he had tasted thereof, he would not drink.

35. And they crucified him, and parted his garments, casting lots; that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, They parted my garments among them, and upon my vesture did they cast lots.

36. And sitting down they watched him there; 37. And set up over his head his accusation written, THIS IS JESUS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

38. Then were there two thieves crucified with him, one on the right hand and another on the left.

39. And they that passed by reviled him, wagging their heads.

40. And saying, Thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save thyself. If thou be the Son of God, come down from the cross.

41. Likewise also the chief priests mocking him, with the scribes and elders, said:

42. He saved others; himself he cannot save. If he be the King of Israel, let him now come down from the cross, and we will believe him.

43. He trusted in God; let him deliver him now, if he will have him; for he said, I am the Son of God.

44. The thieves also, which were crucified with him, cast the same in his teeth.

45. Now from the sixth hour there was darkness over all the land unto the ninth hour.

46. And about the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani? that is to say, My God, My God, why hast thou forsaken me?

47. Some of them that stood there, when they heard that, said, This man calleth for Elias.

48. And straightway one of them ran, and took a sponge, and filled it with vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink.

49. The rest said, Let be, let us see whether Elias will come to save him.

50. Jesus, when he had cried again with a loud voice, yielded up the ghost.

51. And, behold, the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom; and the earth did quake, and the rocks were moved.

52. And when Jesus was dead, he lay in the tomb.

53. And when the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, went to buy spices, to anoint him.

54. And very early in the morning they went to the tomb, when it was yet dark.

55. And they found the stone rolled away from the tomb.

56. And they went in, but found not the body.

57. And as they went to tell these things unto the elders, behold, Jesus stood before them, and said unto them, Peace be unto you: forasmuch as ye have believed in me, which was dead, and yet am alive.

58. And he said unto them, Touch me, and see; for I am not a ghost which ye have seen.

59. And he said unto them, Behold my hands and my feet, that I may be touched, and know that I am not a ghost.

60. And as he said these things, he shewed unto them his hands and his feet.

61. And when he had shewed unto them his hands and his feet, he said unto them, Behold, I have sent you out as I have done unto the apostles, and ye shall witness in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

62. And when ye shall have witnessed, ye shall preach the gospel in all cities, and villages, and deserts, that ye may bring forth the harvest, for I have sent you out as labourers in my harvest.

63. And, behold, I have sent you out with the power of the Holy Ghost, and ye shall witness against the Jews, and against the Gentiles, and against the kings, and against all that are upon the earth.

64. And I have given unto you the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

65. And when he had said these things, he was taken up, and he sat on the right hand of God.

66. And he shall sit on the throne of David, and shall reign over the Jews and the Gentiles, forever.

67. And the Lord Jesus shall be crowned with glory and honour, when he shall have overcome all his enemies.

68. And he shall reign over the Jews and the Gentiles, forever.

69. And he shall be crowned with glory and honour, when he shall have overcome all his enemies.

70. And he shall reign over the Jews and the Gentiles, forever.

71. And he shall be crowned with glory and honour, when he shall have overcome all his enemies.

72. And he shall reign over the Jews and the Gentiles, forever.

73. And he shall be crowned with glory and honour, when he shall have overcome all his enemies.

74. And he shall reign over the Jews and the Gentiles, forever.

75. And he shall be crowned with glory and honour, when he shall have overcome all his enemies.

76. And he shall reign over the Jews and the Gentiles, forever.

77. And he shall be crowned with glory and honour, when he shall have overcome all his enemies.

78. And he shall reign over the Jews and the Gentiles, forever.

79. And he shall be crowned with glory and honour, when he shall have overcome all his enemies.

80. And he shall reign over the Jews and the Gentiles, forever.

99. And he shall be crowned with glory and honour, when he shall have overcome all his enemies.

100. And he shall reign over the Jews and the Gentiles, forever.

WORLD OPINION

The quotations hereunder called from the Press of the World, do not necessarily carry the endorsement of the Nanaimo Free Press.

BATHROOM SINGERS

When the great singer and his golden baritone left the Metropolitan Opera a year ago, he vowed publicly that never again would he sing. The months have passed and he is able to report that he is having a magnificent time.

This cheers us mightily, to know that all of us—baritone, the best no less than the worst, or tenors or basses, as the case may be—are bath room singers under the skin—Kingston Whig-Standard.

WHITE RAINBOW

"My heart leaps up when I behold, a rainbow in the sky" the declaration is as familiar as any that have ever been made in the course of English poetry. But it may be conjectured that the heart of William Wordsworth would have leapt still higher than usual (or alternatively) have gone right down into his boots!

For it is described as "a shining white rainbow," and though it would be dangerous for the meteorologist or physicist to deny that such a thing has ever been seen before, it is perfectly certain that it cannot have been seen very often. It strikes at the whole of the colors of the rainbow—red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo, violet, and white.

Presumably only the fact that it was stretched in the sky like an arch enabled the trembling peasants to identify it as a rainbow at all. Nor can it be regarded as absolutely certain that they will always have a reason that remaining due to its identity. When rainbows go white these seem to be no guarantee that they will not go crooked. The slawish adherents to the modern tradition of color has been broken in the matter of color, it may yet be shaken in the matter of pattern and design so that we get a square rainbow or one that goes up and down like a scenic railway.—Manchester Guardian.

MUSICAL MOMENTS

The most discouraging thing about jazz is that it is always viewed in a false perspective; it is either mercilessly condemned, or immediately praised. It is denounced by one who is worshipped by others as the Golden Calf of a present-seeking age.

Yet the people who champion jazz the most loudly, know least about it, while those who denounce it the most fiercely have only a vague and prejudicial knowledge of its origin and theory.

In 1619 a Dutch vessel landed 200 African natives at Jamestown, Virginia, for sale in His Majesty's colonies. Their business done, these men, singing Dutch tunes, weighed anchor and set sail. Little dreaming of the problem they had created for the great unknown continent.

Still less did they imagine that 300 years later, this continent's music would be the antithesis of their own. This was the beginning of the slave trade in America, and to supply this trade we know how Africans were robbed of hundreds and thousands of their children. They were suddenly uprooted, different tribes and different tongues. They brought with them one great endowment, their primitive native musical talent.

The music of the negro took the form of folk songs. All attempts to prove that these songs are not genuine product of the black race have failed. H. E. Krehbiel, American critic, and the learned German Friedrich both concluded that such was the case.

difficulties by the negro upon his desires, pleasures and disappointments. A second and the most important element is this Negro-American music was rhythm. This was purely African. The musical concept of European civilization is melody, the African jangle is rhythm.

We know enough of drum-beating and voodoo dancing to be able to understand this. Melody consciousness of the Negro was largely due to this. The Negro is the true exponent of the European races have submerged their love of melody to rhythm of the jangle.

Weekly Notes of Jehovah's Witnesses

Two weeks ago in this place we dealt with the faithful men of old who are mentioned in the 11th chapter of Hebrews. The whole of this chapter is written for the comfort and encouragement of God's people living at the end of the age. These men all died in faith looking forward to the coming of the kingdom of God. After recording some of the incidents in the life of Abraham, the Apostle says in verse 19, "For he looked for a city which hath foundations whose builder and maker is God." This city which Abraham looked for was God's kingdom.

The 39th verse of this chapter shows that all these faithful men have not yet received the reward of their faithfulness. It reads, "And these all having obtained a good report through faith received not the promise." Their reward is still in the future. The reason why these men did not enter into their reward is shown by the 40th verse. We pointed out two weeks ago that these men would be resurrected back on the earth as human creatures, and that they will be princes or rulers in the earth. They will be the visible representatives of Christ. During the past nineteen hundred years God has been selecting another class who will be rulers in the kingdom of God.

This class will be in heaven along with Christ. While this class are in earth they enter into a covenant with God to do his will, and God begets them of his holy spirit. If they continue to faithfully serve Jehovah unto death, they are resurrected as spirit creatures in heaven as kings and priests unto God, and reign with Christ a thousand years. Rev. 20:6.

This class who are taken to heaven must be selected before the faithful men who died before the coming of Christ enter into their reward. In verse 40 of Hebrews 11 we read "God having provided some better thing for us, that they without us should not be made perfect." Thus we have the proof that Abraham who is called the father of the faithful, did not go to heaven. He is still in the grave, and he must remain there until the last member of the body of Christ has been proven faithful. Then Abraham and these others will be resurrected "perfect men." There are many people of good will living on earth today who love the Lord, who will see these faithful men, but on the earth in the very near future. There are many who will pass through the great crisis of Armageddon into God's kingdom and live forever in the earth. God's kingdom is the only hope of the world. Take your stand on God's side now, it may be you shall never die.

Do You Remember?

Fifty Years Ago The new East Coast steamer Amelia has been thoroughly inspected, and although not officially announced, it is generally understood that everything was found satisfactory. She will be copied and some alterations made in her cabin accommodations. It is stated that the Amelia will make two trips to Nanaimo and one to New Westminster each week. The initial trip will be made in about two weeks' time.

Twenty-five Years Ago The St. North Western instead of being up at the wharf last night, bumped into it. She must have hit it pretty hard for she knocked out about 15 feet of it midway between the two conveyors. The big 12x12 chokers were broken off like matchsticks and some of the heavy piles cracked under the pressure.

BRUMPTON BLOCK

WHISPERING ROCK

by JOHN LEBAR

Old Charlie Thane snapped off the ignition with a thick, square finger. Carefully, the decrepit car rolled forward into only vacant space on its street and stopped its front tires snugly against the curb. The curb was painted a faded red; and across the sidewalk was the entrance of the post office. Charlie's big fingers on the wheel, the old man glanced anxiously at the sidewalk of the Arizona sun. Behind him clattered the street traffic, its progress occasionally interrupted by the hoarse, unaccounted ringing of the telephone suspended above the intersection half a block away.

A pair of legs clad in khaki serge trousers wandered casually to the front of the car. Old Charlie's gaze sank "Morning, Chief," he said moodily, lifting his eyes to the other's face.

"Howdy, Chief," replied the policeman in a soft drawl. He glanced curiously at the car and inquired, "New's cousin? Lena a-tellin' her out these days?"

Old Charlie sighed. Leaving the car in gear, for the emergency brake had long ago returned from active service, he eased his unwieldy body to a standing position on the pavement and goodly slammed the door. "Not so good, Buck. Not so good. Top half of 'em windshield fell out on the way in."

"A 'b'Za think," remarked the policeman, nodding toward the yellow stencil on the side of the car, "that so long as Uncle Sam's got his U. S. Mail brand on her he could afford to give the old girl a truss or something?"

Old Charlie grinned assent and stepped on the sidewalk. "Sven's like Congress just don't take the time to get round to anything important."

The two men remained motionless on the curb. At last the officer slightly shifted his position, then asked, "Anything new over your way?"

Old Charlie considered carefully. "Things are mighty dry," he admitted.

"His friend of fifty years nodded. "Goes got a bad deal last winter—'as the year I lost too."

"Bad," corroborated Old Charlie. "Dry spring so far, too. Come a dry summer, and us cattlemen'll do well by the buzzards." This burst of conversation had apparently exhausted "Sven's."

"The eyes of Old Charlie narrowed incredulously. He hesitated for a moment. "Are you real certain it's the Dead Lantern you want to go to?"

"The eyes of Old Charlie narrowed incredulously. He hesitated for a moment. "Are you real certain it's the Dead Lantern you want to go to?"

"The ranch we want to visit is called the Dead Lantern and the address was San Jorge," spoke the girl, "it was formerly owned by Mr. Harry Grey and a Mr. Snavely. Mr. Grey died recently. Do you know of the place and can you take us there?"

"I go by the front gate, Ma'am."

"Excellent. Perhaps if we start soon we shall be in time for luncheon?" We can send in for our luggage later this afternoon, I suppose.

"Old Charlie did not miss the tone in which this was spoken. Also, he did not miss the fact that she regarded him as a taxi driver. "If you want to go," he supplied, "I'd be glad to take you, but it's eighty miles to the Dead Lantern and the road's nothing to brag on. You can get them to put up a lunch for you at this ice cream parlor over there. And if we can get your baggage on this car I'd be better off to take it."

"I only make one trip a week," the girl caught her breath. "Surely there must be a train— isn't there a town nearer than this?"

"No, Ma'am. There's a spur track from Mexico that runs about thirty miles from the ranch but they only use it at cattle shipping time."

"The young woman looked from her husband to Old Charlie. "Do you mean that this ranch is eighty-five miles out in the wilderness and there isn't even a machine on the place?"

"That's about the size of it, Ma'am."

"But how do they get to town?"

"They come by some very often."

"Keethah!" The girl appealed to her husband with questioning eyes. For a long moment the two young people faced each other.

"Then with a shrug of helplessness she turned toward Old Charlie. "We didn't understand how it would be. I expect we'd better do as you suggest. We only have a small trunk and some bags—they're still at the station."

Old Charlie nodded cheerfully. "Fine. If you'll give me the checks I can be getting the stuff loaded while you folks see about your lunches. I'm sorry I can't take you any nearer though. Are they expecting you?"

"Oh, yes. We wrote Mr. Snavely some time ago that we intended to arrive today. It can't be so very far from the gate to the house, can it?"

"About five miles, I should judge."

"Good Lord!" The young man glanced curiously at the people on the sidewalk. "Well, then, I suppose we'd better telephone Mr. Snavely and make sure that he will meet us. We've already tried to find his name in the directory."

Old Charlie shook his head. "The line stops about two miles after you leave town."

"No telephone?" The young man's brows puckered. "No telephone," he spoke slowly; the idea was quite new to him. "But how do people— he paused and became more thoughtful. "Well, but say, Snavely knows all this. Does he know that you are the only means of transportation and that—do you have a regular day for making this trip?"

"Every Saturday."

"Well, then, he continued, pleased with his deductions, "Mr. Snavely knows that we're coming on the same day you bring the mail and I'm sure he'll meet us. We're rather important visitors, you know," he finished with a half-embarrassed smile.

By the time Old Charlie had returned with a small steamer trunk lashed on the rack and three bags tied in a neat case on the floor of the car, the family party was waiting. The little party in the back seat, crowded together in recognition of the strangeness of their surroundings. Shortly after the outskirts of the town had been reached, Old Charlie led the young man's voice raised with forced cheerfulness. "Were you ever on an unpowered road before, Ruth? I don't believe I ever before. For a long time this scrap of conversation lingered in the mind of the old man."

HORNETS WIN

Wellington Handed Setback In Eight Innings

Outplaying their Wellington opponents in every department, Hornets handed the district nine a 7-3 setback in eight innings at the Central Sports Grounds last night.

The heavy hitting farmers had their bats stilled during their first five frames when only 10 men faced Galus, his rival moonshiner. In the sixth, Wellington cut down their opponents' 4-0 lead when Davies potted a double to score two men.

Hornets retaliated with three runs in their half of the inning, as they got to Malpas' offerings for a walk, two singles and an error.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Wellington—090 002 10—3 4 6
Hornets—010 303 06—7 8 5
Malpas and Medley; Galus and Dent.

In an earlier game, U.B.C. went on a hitting rampage that netted them 15 hits. Twelve errors by their Brechin opponents gave them a 22-1 victory.

Several extra-base hits were potted and included two home runs—Baird smacked a four-bay swat for 500 yards in the ninth but none were on bases. Boyd hit for the circuit in the earlier innings.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
U. B. C.—200 481 7—22 15 2

Expected, aren't we, Ruth? The something about all this I like though," he swept his arm toward the skyline; then opening his eyes, he faced the distant butte, now slightly behind them. "You know, this air is positively wonderful!" He tried to take a deep breath into his strained lungs, but choked, and it was a full minute before he could speak again. "Anyway," he grinned weakly, "this air was certainly made to breathe."

British Navy in Danger By Use of Imported Fuel Oil

ment, because if this country were to free itself next year from the London and Washington Naval Treaties to increase the numbers of our ships we shall, in present policies, be persisted in, only add to the gravity of our problem.

We are thus faced with the amazing paradox that with every increase in the number of our oil-fired war vessels our vulnerability increases, because the oil for those vessels has to be transported and protected by other vessels from all quarters of the globe.

In other words, the foreigners hold on British sea power increases with every British warship and merchant vessel that we build.

The oil-firing of the Navy began on a large scale in 1912. This revolutionary decision was taken without the approval of Parliament.

It was taken in spite of the fact that a royal commission had been appointed to consider the subject, and in spite of the fact that the royal commission concerned never published its report.

Here are a few facts in regard to the situation. In 1914 less than three per cent. of our mercantile marine was run on oil. Today there is 9,000,000 tons of it.

During the war less than half the Navy was run on oil. Today with the exception of a few sloops, the Navy is completely tied to oil.

Notwithstanding the fact that less than half our Navy was oil-fired during the war, the protection of the oil works in Persia required that hundreds of millions of pounds and thousands of valuable lives had to be sacrificed to carry out the biggest military campaign ever conducted east of Suez.

Notwithstanding this enormous expenditure, the pipelines were cancelled, and at one time the oil ceased to flow.

At the most critical period of the war our oil stocks fell to three weeks' supply.

Thus we had the most amazing spectacle of oil-burning vessels—oil-fired because it was believed that oil firing gave them extra speed—being kept in harbour for preference and the speed of coal-burning ships being reduced to keep pace with the speed of oil vessels, reduced because of shortages.

The safety of the country and its economic health are involved in this issue. Millions of pounds sent abroad for foreign fuel are a constant strain on the sterling exchange, there are over 300,000 miners on the dole.

Moreover, during the last war one of our greatest sources of strength was our control over the fuel not only of our own vessels, but of neutral vessels. We exercised an immense influence over other countries which had no native fuel supplies.

This commanding position we have not only sacrificed, but handed over as a gift to other nations.

Success Claimed For Wage Act by Hon. G. S. Pearson

Victoria, June 9.—Hon. George S. Pearson, in an address before the Women's Liberal Forum, Friday traced the government's aim in regard to labor legislation and claimed measurable success had resulted already from changes in B. C. regulations dealing with hours of work and minimum wages. Thousands, he said, had benefited from restoration of wages, which had in many cases fallen below the standard set as a minimum for women workers.

Government Gives No Reasons For Switch in Judges

Victoria, June 9.—By order-in-council today the government accepted the resignation of Miss Edith Louise Patterson as juvenile judge in Vancouver City, as already forecast. The same order re-installed Mrs. Helen Gregory MacGill of Vancouver, as judge in the juvenile court of the mainland city, a post she held under the former Liberal regime.

Emoluments for the office were set at $1,200 per year.

The appointment of Mrs. MacGill will take effect on June 11. No reasons were assigned for the change, other than the resignation of Miss Patterson had been accepted.

Member of Dance Team Fined By Parisian Court

Paris, June 9.—Jenny Dolly, one-half of the famous dancing team of the Locals today, today was fined $250,000 and given a suspended sentence of three days in jail for evading payment of the luxury tax on her 51-carat diamond ring, which she brought in Cannes in 1928.

The ring was valued at 4,000,000 francs, which in those days was $300,000. The government tax would have been $32,500.

The ring itself was sold in an auction sale of Miss Dolly's jewels recently for only 1,250,000 francs—about $100,000.

The dancer was badly disfigured in an auto accident at Bordeaux in France, 1933. She testified that her secretary, who is now dead, had been responsible for the entire transaction.
